MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, Intelligence Community Staff
FROM: Director of Central Intelligence
SUBJECT: Highlights of Senior Planning Conference

I rewrote this a bit to pinpoint the tasking on the weapons and personnel utilization issues a little more sharply. As I mentioned to you and Floise last night at your reception, the public diplomacy issue is an important one but I think the NSC should take the lead on it. Our role now is to determine on a case-by-case basis how intelligence contributes to informing the public without jeopardizing sources and methods. This will come up with respect to specific public diplomacy initiatives. We will have to respond to a call for release of information on the Soviet missile defense effort and on Soviet non-compliance with arms agreements. The response will be to see how to produce generalized conclusions which will not jeopardize sources. We have to see how effectively this can be done on a case-by-case basis. Larry Gershwin will be addressing the call for missile defense information and a call for information on Soviet non-compliance. They will both be proceeding to sanitize and generalize and we have to determine on a Community basis how far we can afford to go on this when we see the results of the work.

MEMORANDUM FOR: See Distribution

SUBJECT: Highlights of Senior Planning Conference

1. The 11-12 December Senior Planning Conference covered a broad range of issues concerning the Intelligence Community in the near-, mid- and long-terms. Some lend themselves to immediate attack; others will require long-range and in-depth study and planning. Although we did not have the opportunity at the conclusion of our meeting to define fully and agree upon all issues, I believe that the attached are some of the issues which were highlighted as important and time-sensitive, and which lend themselves to immediate action. I shall be interested in receiving your progress reports on actions which you may be taking in connection with these.
2. A comprehensive report is being prepared which will cover the conference discussion and other issues raised, with recommended courses of action.
3. It is evident that many challenges face us in the years ahead, and we must work together to ensure the continuing health of the Intelligence Community and of our assets, and to evaluate our performance as we proceed.
